

Meet Your New FOXWOOD VILLAGE Neighbors

#223 – Shelly & Lou Zbar

Hi everyone, we're Shelly & Lou
Just moved here from Lake Grove & hope to meet all of you.

He loved our big colonial but the stairs were killing me
So as long as our new place had a garage and basement, he said that he'd be happy.

We're married 54 yrs & still happy, it's true.
Have two daughters, three grandkids & a grand doggie too.

Lou's a retired auto mechanics teacher who was worthy of note;
He loves NY Times crosswords & control of the TV remote.

Our kids, grandkids & friends are the center of his life
And he's very romantic so I'm a happy wife.

He hates what he calls "farm work" like mowing, you know,
And wants to be off to Florida before the 1st snow.

He's a wonderful friend as you all soon will see.
And "a happy wife is a happy life" is his motto
Which is just perfect with me!

I was a dental surgical assistant then a bookkeeper for many years
'Til my love of writing poems led me to create Rhymes For All Reasons
Which now brings my clients to both laughter and tears.

Writing poems, reading, singing, cooking, entertaining, travelling, family, friends and Lou – all make me very happy.
And we both look forward to making new memories in Foxwood Village at #223.

I thought that downsizing after living up Island in Holtsville for 44 years would be a "bummer".
Well, I was SO wrong. I love my new home and my new neighbors.

As I babysit 5 days a week for my grandkids, when I'm not traveling, it will take a little time to become a part of my new community. (I'm looking forward to it).

I am a compulsive reader. (I'll read a cereal box if it's in front of me)! So, the book club will be a must.

I also paint. If you see me sitting at an easel in my driveway, no worries. I haven't lost it! I just need better light.

I have observed how everyone looks out after each other and feel blessed. Thank you for the wonderful welcome and have a lovely summer
